† These columns refer to the chapters that were dedicated to transcripts of whole volumes of funeral entries (and coats of arms therein) and parish registers; smaller extracts of such records were occasionally included in entries within the main content.

‡ Many of the digitised versions on Internet Archive are replicated in the FamilySearch Digital Library and Forgotten Books, plus two are on MyHeritage.

§ These issues ultimately formed Volume I, though they were not labelled as such at the time of printing.

Note: about 1% of the Journals' content is not currently accessible online – the illustrations of coats of arms from funeral entries in Vols. X-XI and the final list of members for 1938.

THESE ARE ALL FREE TO ACCESS. THEY HAVE ALL BEEN MADE TEXT SEARCHABLE USING OPTICAL CHARACTER RECOGNITION (OCR), EXCEPT FOR THE FAMILYSEARCH COLLECTION, IN WHICH SCANNED MICROFILM IMAGES CAN BE BROWSED. THE QUALITY OF THE OCR VARIES. THIS DIRECTORY WILL BE UPDATED IF WE LEARN OF NEW COLLECTIONS BECOMING AVAILABLE.

SECTIONS OF THE JOURNALS

COLLECTIONS OF THE JOURNALS ARE NOT IDENTICAL! IN ADDITION TO MANY COLLECTIONS BEING INCOMPLETE, THE SEQUENCE OF PAGES AND SECTIONS CAN VARY FROM ONE COLLECTION TO ANOTHER. GENERALLY, ALL THE ISSUES IN A VOLUME WERE HARDBOUND TOGETHER BUT THE SECTIONS WERE OFTEN REARRANGED BEFOREHAND, AND EACH SUBSCRIBER TOOK THEIR OWN APPROACH TO THIS. IT IS, THEREFORE, EASIER TO NAVIGATE THE JOURNALS IF YOU UNDERSTAND THE DIFFERENT SECTIONS AND THEIR RESPECTIVE PAGE NUMBERING SYSTEMS.

Section	Page numbering	Description
Preface	In the first volume, Arabic numerals (e.g. 1, 2, 3), continuing from the main content. After that, Roman numerals (e.g. i, ii, iii), restarting in each new issue.	Includes cover pages, frontispiece illustrations, introductory remarks, lists of subscribers (also known as members), accounts, treasurer's reports, contents pages and lists of illustrations. After Volume I, the page numbering restarts in each issue so the same page number can recur several times in a volume. For example, Volume XII comprises six issues, each with its own preface, and an overall table of contents, thus this volume has seven different pages numbered v, vi, etc.
Main content	Arabic numerals (e.g. 1, 2, 3), continuing across issues and restarting in each new volume.	Predominantly "Reports from Counties", with entries presented under parish/graveyard headings that are arranged alphabetically within each county. Later issues include Notes and Queries, Book Notices, Miscellanea, will transcripts, overseas gravestones and birth/marriage/death notices from The Dublin Journal . Full-page illustrations and extra-wide pages (e.g. for pedigree charts) were printed separately, to be interleaved; these are labelled "to face page #".
Funeral entries	Arabic numerals in square brackets (e.g. [1], [2], [3]), continuing across issues and volumes.	Transcripts of funeral entries were published in Volumes VII and VIII. Drawings of the coats of arms in these funeral entries were published in Volumes X, XI and XII. Funeral entry sections have their own indexes.
Parish registers	Arabic numerals with asterisks (e.g. 1*, 2*, 3*), continuing across issues and volumes.	Transcripts of complete collections of parish registers were published in Volumes XI, XII and XIII. Most are from Co. Dublin but there are a few from other localities. Parish register sections have their own indexes.
Main indexes	In volumes I-V, Roman numerals. In volumes VI-X, Arabic numerals continuing from the main content. After that, Arabic numerals starting at 1.	In early volumes, indexes of the main content include both personal names and placenames; these are separated in later volumes. In some volumes, indexes are in dictionary order; in other volumes, they are just arranged by first letter. They may be absent from some collections because, from Volume III, there were additional charges for indexes and it is possible that not every subscriber purchased them.

Note: Addenda et Corrigenda appear in different places in different volumes.
